

Every test frame was selected and frozen before inference; consumed frames were never reused for tuning.